

Elie Nadelman: Classical Folk

Elie Nadelman: Classical Folk is a fully illustrated catalogue that focuses on the figural sculpture of Elie Nadelman (1882-1946) reappraising the artists distinct position within twentieth-century American sculpture. It details the artists years in the United States (1914-1946), when he merged classical and folk art sources to create a unique fusion of past and present, traditional and modern, and high and low. The essays provide multiple perspectives on Nadelmans art. Curator Suzanne Ramljak examines Nadelmans achievements in the classical figural tradition, while an essay by Avis Berman examines the artists involvement with folk art. Klaus Kertess writes on Nadelmans late plasters, and Valerie Fletcher focuses on the materials and working processes of the artist. Finally, the text is complemented by an illustrated chronology of the artists biography with artistic milieus by Cynthia Nadleman, the artists biographer and granddaughter.
